Some teenagers ask for cosmetic surgery to get a better look, but often the real reason to change themselves is skin deep. 26 to psychologist Dorothy Ratusny, these teenagers are trying to overcome a low belief and confidence in themselves. She goes on to explain that teenagers worry a lot about 27 others, especially their friends and classmates, think about them. Adolescence is also a time when other events are more likely 28 in their family and these can also negatively affect the self-belief and confidence of teenagers. These events include divorce, a decline in the financial situation of the family, child abuse, and 29. As a result of these deeper issues, Dr. Ratusny believes that it is 30 important to provide these teenagers with psychological help and support than to conduct cosmetic surgery. She believes that cosmetic surgery is not a long lasting solution.

“Dangerous Minds” is a touching movie about a teacher who tries to change a class of “rude” and “violent” students who have no interest in education. Lou Ann Johnson is hired on the spot to teach English and is told that her students are 31 but that they are special kids. Another teacher describes them as “bright kids, with 32 education, and what we politely refer to as social problems.” When Johnson enters the classroom, her mainly non-white students call her “white bread” and boo her down in other ways. 33, Johnson does not let the difference between her and their 34 stop her. She hands out candy bars to them and takes them on free trips to the amusement park. However, the real 35 happens when she involves them in some very powerful words: I will not carry myself to die. When I go to my grave my head will be high.

For the most part, I was excited to begin college life. All through the summer vacation, I kept thinking of this fresh, new period of my life. Some of my thoughts were centered on what to take with me. Eventually, I left home with very little.

Looking back, I am glad I left several things behind. I did not take every DVD, computer game, and comic book with me, or any closet groceries such as crackers, peanut butter, jam, dried fruits, or coffee. If I had, I would have been tied up in my room most of the time. I also did not take any furniture, appliances, or any decorations for my room. Basically, I just got there with very little and planned with my roommates how we were going to make our room look. It was only after I had gotten their input that I made a trip back home to get some items. Not having taken so many things already sounds like it was a major achievement, but there were other things that I left behind too.

These other things were not objects. They were things like my high school friends. I left all of them behind. By this, I do not mean that I cut them out of my life. What I mean is that I was not held back by my friendship with them. I was able to reach out and make new friends at college. I also left behind any fears, worries, and doubts concerning what college life might or might not turn out to be. I found calm in the belief that I should begin my college life with a fresh view.

In the end, I arrived at my college dorm with nothing but a sleeping bag, some clothes, and a willingness to experience and learn.

42. What did the author and his roommates do first?
(A) They made a plan. (B) They went out for some drinks.
(C) They played online games. (D) They cooked a meal together.
43. According to the third and fourth paragraphs, which of the following did the author NOT leave behind?
(A) His high school friends. (B) Uncertainty about college life.
(C) A fear of being alone at college. (D) A heart to learn new things.
44. Which of the following best describes the author's attitude?
(A) shocked (B) unreasonable (C) open-minded (D) disagreeable
45. What is the best title for this passage?
(A) Controlling Your Finances (B) Adjusting to College Life
(C) Campus Safety (D) Time Management

People are making lifestyle choices to reduce greenhouse gas emissions globally. Among greenhouse gases, carbon dioxide is the main reason for climate change and natural disasters, such as flooding and droughts. There are many things that we can do about our food, travel, and electricity to reduce the speed of global warming.

It is well known that the food system is responsible for at least 20 percent of greenhouse gases. A low carbon diet reduces emissions released from the production, packing, processing, transport, and preparation of food. It is recommended for one to buy organic food instead of eating imported, processed, and frozen foods. Eat only food which is in season or from your region. Avoid eating red meat and dairy products, which are the most emission-intensive foods. Other actions include eating a vegetarian diet and proper portion to reduce the waste of food.

The burning of gasoline to power vehicles that transport food over long distances by air, ship, truck, and rail releases a great amount of carbon dioxide. Walk, bike, carpool, or take mass transportation whenever possible. As a driver, prevent unnecessary idling of engines, avoid aggressive driving, rapid acceleration or sudden stops, and keep vehicles in good running condition.

Unlike incandescent bulbs, compact fluorescent lamps use 70 – 80 percent less energy and last at least 8 – 13 times longer. Other tips include turning off lights and appliances when they are not in use. Unplug cellular phone chargers when the battery is fully charged, and reduce the use of the dryer by hanging up your laundry on a clothesline.

We can slow down the climate change by making personal commitment to protect our planet, thereby avoiding the dangerous consequences of global warming.

46. What is the best title for this passage?
(A) Natural Disaster (B) Low Carbon Living
(C) The Importance of Transportation (D) The Effects of Global Warming
47. Which action can be taken at home to help reduce carbon dioxide?
(A) Carpool with friends or co-workers.
(B) Ride your bike to school.
(C) Avoid sudden stops while driving.
(D) Use compact fluorescent.

48. According to the passage, which of the following is the main cause of global warming?
(A) Carbon dioxide. (B) Organic food.
(C) Red meat. (D) Cellular phone charger.
49. To live on low carbon diet, which of the following is recommended?
(A) Drinking bottled water. (B) Eating imported food.
(C) Growing food in your garden. (D) Taking a large portion of food.
50. According to the passage, which of the following statements is true?
(A) Compact fluorescent lamps relatively use more energy than incandescent bulbs.
(B) Incandescent bulbs last longer than compact fluorescent lamps.
(C) Compact fluorescent lamps use 20 – 30 percent of the energy incandescent bulbs consume.
(D) People using compact fluorescent lamps pay a higher electricity bill.
