Thousands of years ago people in Egypt thought that dead people needed their bodies after death. They believed that the people continued to live in a place called the 31. So they found a way to keep dead bodies from rotting. They figured out 32 to turn dead people into mummies. They preserved most of their kings and queens this way.

It was a lot of work to make a mummy. First, priests washed the dead body. Then they removed the organs. They put salt all over the body. After six weeks, the body dried out. Next, they stuffed the body with sand, sawdust, or cloth. This made the body 33 full again. Then they rubbed spices and oils into the skin. Finally the priests wrapped cloth strips around each part of the body. 34 they put the body into a coffin. The most famous mummy is King Tut. He was put into a secret tomb. Scientists found this tomb in 1922. His family 35 gold, gems, and other riches into his tomb. Inside, King Tut's mummy lay in a gold coffin.

An average English speaker has a vocabulary of about 15,000 words. Of these 15,000 words, most people may only use about 2,000 words on a daily basis. That means that the great majority of words 36 by speakers seem to belong to passive vocabulary. Problems arise, 37, when people try to tell active vocabulary from passive vocabulary.

Typically, passive vocabulary is defined as the words that speakers recognize but rarely use 38 speaking and writing. However, consider a word like “funnel.” One can 39 believe that all native English speakers know and can produce this word correctly. On the other hand, hardly anyone would use 40 on a daily basis. It might wrongly be considered a passive vocabulary item because it is not used very often.

36. (A) use (B) used (C) using (D) uses
37. (A) however (B) concerning (C) despite (D) because
38. (A) why (B) where (C) how (D) when

IV. 閱讀測驗：下面兩篇短文共有 10 題，每篇各有 5 題，為第 41—50 題，請閱讀短文後，選出最適當的答案。

▲ 閱讀下文，回答第 41—45 題

According to some scientists, there will not be enough land to support the entire population of Earth in the near future. They suggest that we should find somewhere else other than Earth to live. While some scientists are thinking about building communities on the Moon and Mars, other scientists feel that independent space stations could bring more benefits.

So what is wrong with the Moon or Mars? First of all, the distances are a problem. The Moon is about 240,000 miles from Earth, and Mars is over 35 million miles away. The journey to the Moon takes about eight days, and the one to Mars takes from six to eight months. It will be both time-consuming and dangerous to get settlers to these distant places. Moreover, it takes a message up to 44 minutes to go from Earth to Mars, making fast communication impossible. On the other hand, a space station circling Earth is just a few hours away. This makes the trip much cheaper and communication much easier. Furthermore, the darkness of night on the Moon and Mars is not a good thing either. On a space station, however, the sun's energy can be made available to support people living there 24 hours a day.

41. What is the main idea of the first paragraph?
(A) The need of living in outer space.
(B) The results of improving human relations.
(C) The importance of building space shuttles.
(D) The benefits of finding new energy sources.
42. Why do scientists suggest that people should move into outer space?
(A) It can be exciting to live in outer space.
(B) There will not be enough land on Earth.
(C) It is not easy to manage human resources.
(D) There are space stations available on Mars.
43. Which of the following is NOT the problem people would have when living on the Moon or Mars?
(A) Communication (B) Distance (C) Darkness (D) Construction
44. Why is it better for people to live in space stations than in the communities on the Moon or Mars?
(A) Space stations can contain more people.
(B) The Moon and Mars are too close to the sun.
(C) Space stations are better able to use the sun's energy.
(D) The Moon and Mars are too small for human communities.
45. Which statement would the writer of the passage most likely agree with?
(A) Everyone will live on a space station in the future.
(B) In the future, space communities will not be needed.
(C) Mars is a better place for a space community than the Moon.
(D) A space station is a better place for a space community than Mars.

Before the 1900s, most Americans had never tasted chocolate. In ancient times, as early as 1000 BC, people already knew how to have chocolate in a drink. It was made from cocoa beans and bitter spices. Later, people learned to add sugar to make the drink sweeter. In 1828, a Dutch chemist found a way to make the fine powder we know as cocoa. Soon, candy makers began to find ways to make candy from cocoa.

In 1875, Daniel Peter and Henri Nestle began to find a way to produce milk chocolate. Making milk chocolate took a lot of work and was very expensive. It also took a lot of time.

In the early 1900s, Milton Hershey found a way to mass produce milk chocolate, or make large amounts of it, in his factory in Hershey, Pennsylvania, USA. He sold his milk chocolate bars for five cents each. This was the first time that most people could afford to eat and enjoy chocolate.

46. What is the passage mainly about?
(A) To give a recipe for chocolate bars.
(B) To give a brief history of chocolate.
(C) To describe the discovery of cocoa beans.
(D) To describe the production of cocoa powder.
47. Which of the following inferences can be drawn from the second paragraph?
(A) The milk chocolate was produced in large amounts in 1875.
(B) Peter and Nestle failed to find a way to make milk chocolate.
(C) The milk chocolate made by Peter and Nestle was expensive.
(D) Peter and Nestle did not spend much time making milk chocolate.
48. Why didn't most Americans get to eat milk chocolate before the early 1900s?
(A) Chocolate was very expensive.
(B) People enjoyed chocolate in a drink.
(C) People preferred to buy cocoa powder.
(D) Chocolate was not available at that time.
49. What is the definition of “mass produce” in the final paragraph?
(A) To use fewer workers to finish a task.
(B) To complete doing something quickly.
(C) To grow something in a variety of places.
(D) To produce large quantities of something.
50. According to the passage, which of the following statements is true?
(A) Chocolate bars were available in 1000 BC.
(B) Milk chocolate was not made until 1875.
(C) People began to drink chocolate after the late 1900s.
(D) Most Americans enjoyed chocolate before the early 1900s.
